The residential complex is an isolated construction that corresponds to 8 houses in a row, located on the southern edge of the municipality of Vilallobent, in the municipality of Puigcerdà.

This project, with linear volumetry, adapts to the topographic variations of the plot, creating different levels of the plot, which correspond to each private garden. Each house has two private outdoor spaces, one facing south, and the other facing north with views.

The exterior image of the complex responds to the balance between traditional elements with a stone façade and slate roof, with current carpentry elements and dark blinds, creating a modern aesthetic adapted to the characteristics of the place.

The interior image, where wood has been used as the main material, contrasted with black and white, gives the necessary warmth in response to the climate of the area.
